Day 02 Kalpa

Breakfast

Dinner

In Hindu and Buddhist cosmology, kalpa refers to a vast period of cosmic time, essentially an "eon" or cycle of creation, existence, and destruction. It is one of the six Vedanga areas of study, focusing particularly on ritual and ceremonial practices. In Hinduism, a Kalpa is defined as one day in the life of Brahma, the creator god, and it spans approximately 4.32 billion human years. This time period is divided into smaller cycles called Manvantaras, each lasting 306.72 million years. Within the Vedangas, Kalpa (often translated as "the Ceremonial") focuses on the proper performance of rituals and sacrifices described in the Vedas. It provides guidance on the application of Vedic knowledge in practical religious life. In Buddhism, Kalpa also signifies a vast cosmic cycle, although the specific duration and nature of these cycles can vary depending on the Buddhist tradition. Some traditions, like Theravada, have different scales for Kalpas, with smaller kalpas like the "small kalpa" of 16 million years and larger ones like the "antara-kalpa" and "maha-kalpa".

Day 03 Tabo

Breakfast

aboos are social or cultural prohibitions against specific actions, behaviors, or objects, often rooted in religious or societal beliefs. These prohibitions are usually considered unacceptable or even offensive within a particular group or culture, and violating them can lead to social disapproval or punishment. A taboo is a ban or prohibition on a specific behavior, activity, or relationship with people, places, or things. Taboos often stem from religious or social customs and are associated with beliefs about what is sacred, dangerous, or unclean. Taboos can serve various functions, including protecting individuals or groups from harm, maintaining social order, or defining group identity. Common examples of taboos include prohibitions against cannibalism, incest, or certain types of food consumption.

Day 04 Tabo to Kaza

 Breakfast  Dinner

Kaza is the largest town and commercial center of Spiti Valley in the Lahaul and Spiti district of Himachal Pradesh, India. It's a high-altitude cold desert known for its regal mountains, ancient monasteries, and serene lakes, making it a popular tourist destination, particularly during the summer months. Kaza is also the administrative headquarters of the Spiti Valley. The town is divided into old, Kaza Khas and new, Kaza Soma sections. The new town contains administrative buildings. Approaching Kaza from the south, one can see the stately palace of the Nono (king), Kue-ling (Skyd-gling), on the other side of the river. The Tangyud (Tang-rgyud) Gompa in Komic village dates back to the early 14th century and is built like a fortified castle, with massive slanting mud walls and steep red ochre and white vertical stripes. It is on the edge of a deep valley and overlooks the town of Kaza, 4 km from the town. The Tangyud Gompa has a branch in Kaza.

Day 05 Kaza

 Breakfast  Dinner

Kaza is known for its colourful festivals and the ruins of the ancient Sakya Tangyud Monastery, located near Komik village, 14 km or 8.7 mi from Kaza. It is also popular among tourists and adventure seekers during the period of June, July and August and September, due to its central location and connectivity to the rest of the valley (connects to the Leh-Manali highway via the Kunzum Pass). This central location also makes Kaza an ideal base camp for trekking, mountaineering and tours to other parts of the valley. The world's highest post office at Hikkim village (PIN 172114) at an altitude of 4,400 m (14,400 ft) is located 46 km (29 mi) from Kaza.
